This year has been especially significant for Children in Crossfire. It saw us focus on initiating our new strategic plan ‘Present for the Future: 2015-2019.’ We are delighted to present our achievements for 2015, and trust you will find how our interventions are improving the lives of thousands of vulnerable young children in Tanzania and Ethiopia.

The organisation worked tirelessly this year to ensure children have their fundamental early childhood needs met. Whether it might be nutritional needs, health needs, or access to water, we responded with compassion and diligence to ensure young children are in the best possible position to access our fundamental early childhood education programme. Through this programme we have worked to ensure schools, parents, services, and children themselves are ‘school ready’, and in the best possible position to reach their full potential through a good education. We are particularly proud of our commitment and efforts to ensure we are proactive in implementing our strategic Mission - ‘To work with others to tackle the Injustices of Poverty affecting Children’. We believe that any injustice that impedes a child’s ability to access our strategic school ready programme is an injustice to be addressed. We are delighted to see results of our mission in action, with children in good health and accessing good quality early childhood and pre-primary education services.

At home we are making great progress with our Development Education programme, which saw us evolve our practice towards a new model which addresses global citizenship at a much more holistic level. We have designed and piloted a new approach to Development Education: the ‘Educating the Heart’ initiative, which nurtures the emotional well-being of young people alongside building their capacity for critical thinking and active citizenship. We believe that for long term engagement in issues of global injustice, young people need to be prepared holistically with both the emotional and intellectual skills to know how to care properly for themselves and others in this one interconnected world. For Children in Crossfire this is what it means to educate someone fully as an active compassionate global citizen, which is fundamental to our new strategic Vision - ‘A Compassionate World where every child can reach his or her Potential’. This new model is seeing us dig deep into contributing to Sustainable Development Goal 4.7 endorsed by the United Nations, and as you read through the Report we trust you will find how we are impacting upon methods, practices and policies for cultivating the skills and values needed for global citizenship.

Finally, as we enter 2016 we will celebrate 20 years in development. Planning is already underway to celebrate our past achievements, and grow and develop our organisation to drive its strategic mission to greater heights, reaching increased numbers of the world’s poorest children. We would like to take this opportunity to thank you, our supporters, for your ongoing commitment to Children in Crossfire. It is only through your compassion and generosity that we are able to work with others to tackle the injustices of poverty affecting children. We hope this report gives you an insight into the 2015-16 successes and trust that in the pages that follow you will find examples that highlight how our work is directly changing lives.

Giving Children the Chance to Choose

Tanzania

Children in Crossfire has been working in Tanzania since 2004. In our target districts of Ilemela, Mvomero and Moshi Rural we work with civil society and Government partners to improve the opportunities for young children to reach their potential by:

- Improving nutrition, stimulation, care and protection of young children
- Building an enabling environment for Early Childhood Development (ECD)
- Supporting up to 2,000 mothers through a Community Managed Microfinance Programme
- Supporting the Government to improve policy and laws affecting young children
- Advocating Government for increased resources towards those laws and policies
- Supporting young children with cancer through quality services

Irish Aid: supporting the work of Children in Crossfire

2015 saw the completion of a four year Integrated Early Childhood Development Programme supported by Irish Aid. Irish Aid is a vital partner in helping us ensure young children in Tanzania can grow, thrive and reach their full potential.

The overall Programme has:

- Helped more than 25,000 children in Tanzania towards achieving their potential, intellectually physically and socially
- Resulted in children experiencing better parenting practice at home, eating more nutritious food and accessing higher quality services in their communities
- Improved nutrition and child protection practice of over 1,600 vulnerable families, strengthened local Government capacity and established sustainable structures for monitoring early childhood development

Strengthening Services for Young Children

Within our target communities we have worked hard to ensure the most vulnerable families are identified, supported and directed to services for young children. Working through community structures we have supported 1,698 women over the past year. The women are organised into small groups, and attend regular community meetings. A trained volunteer teaches the women about nutrition, good parenting practice, and health and feeding practices for young children.

To improve the quality of care provided for young children in our target communities we have a particular focus on strengthening essential services.

- Achieved stronger protection for children at national level, better standards of early childhood education and increased Government awareness on the importance of investing in young children
- Resulted in over 2,000 children with cancer accessing high quality treatment. Over the course of the Programme we have also seen significant improvements in government provision of drugs, from almost nothing in 2012 to around 60% in 2015.

The Success of the Community Managed Micro Finance Programme (CMMF)

CMMF supports the women’s groups to establish small savings and credit schemes. In the past two years the women’s groups have saved over $90,000 and approved loans of $88,000. The interest gained on the loans is utilized for a ‘community education fund’ to support early childhood education programmes in the group’s community. Funds are now supporting salaries for 68 pre-school teachers, ensuring young children get good quality education and community pre-schools are sustained in the long term.
In 2015 we:

- Advocated to 60 key stakeholders in an ‘Innovations in ECD’ workshop
- Conducted a comprehensive review of the National Minimum Standards for Preschools
- Worked to build the capacity of the Ministry of Social Welfare
- In collaboration with other organisations, supported the government to integrate their early childhood policies into the national Child Development Policy

Building Partner Capacity

In 2015 we invested in our local partners through a comprehensive capacity building initiative. We supported improvements in governance, strategic planning, monitoring and evaluation, financial management systems and child protection policies.

Opportunities for Children: Strengthening Pre-Primary Education

2015 also saw us complete a comprehensive pilot programme in 60 Government pre-primary schools in our Fursa kwa Watoto Programme (Opportunities for Children). The programme reached 4,362 children who benefited from improved quality of teaching from 66 teachers, and improved teaching methods and materials to support their learning. Fursa kwa Watoto is currently being implemented to a further 1,290 school children.

Strengthening Policy for Young Children

Children in Crossfire recognises the importance of working at national Government level to advocate decision-makers to strengthen policies and laws for young children.

Ethiopia

Children in Crossfire have three programmes in Ethiopia that are addressing the needs of young children.

In 2012 in the Nefas Silk sub-city of Addis Ababa we began to support a community of 60 vulnerable families who were living in extreme slum conditions. Over the past three years we have implemented an integration and support programme which has provided the families with social housing in a new community. It has also provided nutrition, education and health interventions that have transformed the lives of the families. 2015 saw us continue this work providing nutrition and education support to 240 children - 180 of which have transitioned into Government Primary Schools and are performing well.

In Woliso (south of Addis Ababa), we have continued our partnership with St Luke’s Hospital to address serious issues of childhood malnutrition within a catchment area of 1.1m people. The programme provides therapeutic feeding for severely malnourished children, establishes a safe water supply in vulnerable communities and has an outreach component that has supported 75 health extension workers to educate communities on childhood nutrition to prevent future malnutrition. In 2015 we continued to produce impressive results through the programme which has transformed the lives of thousands of children:

- Since 2011 2,054 lives have been saved in the therapeutic feeding programme - 494 in 2015
- As a result of improved treatment and referral mechanisms the mortality rate has improved from (74% to 2.4%)
- In 2015 the 75 health workers held 267 community education and cooking demonstrations to an estimated 40,000 young mothers
- Access to safe clean water has been secured in three vulnerable communities with a population of around 9,000 people. Accessing safe water near their homes not only improves health, but it is safer for children who do not have to travel far to collect it

During 2015 we also began a programme with the School Readiness Initiative (SRI), to improve the quality of pre-primary education in 54 schools in Addis Ababa. Children in Crossfire’s support focuses on the provision of national snacks for vulnerable children and complements the more comprehensive work of SRI in teacher training and provision of learning materials. The overall programme will benefit 10,300 children with 3,100 receiving nutritional supplements. Results from this programme will emerge in 2016.
Public Support

This year saw a 10.2% increase in unrestricted income:

- In partnership with ‘Hard as Oak’, over 1000 supporters participated in ‘Ireland’s Tough 10k Mud Run’ which raised £5,741.94.
- 39 schools from Ireland, Scotland, England and the Seychelles participated in our Maths Challenge, collectively raising a total £7,487.47. The Maths Challenge is a digital competition available for all primary and post-primary schools to take part in. It promotes a positive ethos of mathematics and a shared learning experience beneficial to all students.
- Regional Supporter Led Fundraising raised £13,491 this year.
- Two Legacy donations were received this year.
- Our 5th Camino event to Santiago raised £10,695.
- 15,000 families received our Annual Advent communication. The campaign was the most successful to date, raising £78,593.

Behind these magnificent totals were the fundraising heroics of thousands of individual supporters wanting to make the world a better place for all children.

2016 will see Children in Crossfire celebrate 20 years of working to make a difference to the lives of some of the world’s most vulnerable people. It is difficult to capture the vast impact we have had over the years, but we would like to take this opportunity to look back on the efforts we have made to tackle the injustices of poverty.

Looking Back

Children in Crossfire will continue to work to make a significant and lasting contribution to tackling poverty in Tanzania and Ethiopia. As we go forward into the future, we will respond to the short, medium and long term needs of our target groups and communities, with a particular niche focus on Early Childhood Development through our Development Education and Public Engagement work in Ireland. We will continue to be guided by evidence to maximise our impact and communicate our global vision, who will work to overcome the inequalities that fuel global inequality and poverty.

Children in Crossfire will continue to work to make a significant and lasting contribution to tackling poverty in Tanzania and Ethiopia. As we go forward into the future, we will respond to the short, medium and long term needs of our target groups and communities, with a particular niche focus on Early Childhood Development.

Through our Development Education and Public Engagement work in Ireland, we will endeavour to nurture active and compassionate global citizens, who will work to overcome the injustices that fuel global inequality and poverty.

Looking Forward
Across Ireland we work with teachers, initial teacher education students, the youth and community sector and our supporters to encourage people to develop a sense of global solidarity through an appreciation of self and others, and to take actions for a fairer world.

Teachers and Initial Teacher Education Students

All of our Development Education Teacher Training programmes are rooted in the curriculum. They are designed to enhance the professional development of teachers, equip them to use creative methods to tackle Development Education themes in the classroom and support them in preparing young people as global citizens.

This year 32,000 students directly benefitted from our programme. We delivered teacher training programmes to 321 educators and built the capacity of over 300 schools and 2 teacher training colleges to embed Development Education more deeply into policy and practice.

The Educating the Heart Initiative

This year, we developed methods and tools to evolve our approach to delivering Development Education. We piloted “Educating the Heart” amongst 11-12 year olds at Oakgrove Integrated College, Derry/Londonderry. The methods and tools were designed to nurture the emotional well-being of young people alongside building their capacity for critical thinking and active citizenship. For Children in Crossfire, this is what it means to educate someone fully as an active compassionate global citizen. This is what it means to “Educate the Heart”. The results of the pilot study have had important implications for how young people are engaged in Development Education and Global Citizenship overall.

Youth, Community and Children in Crossfire Supporters

This year we provided courses to 63 Youth and Community practitioners. This saw 1260 young people benefit from the programme through ongoing engagement in global development and active citizenship.

A further 331 of our supporters took part in Development Education activities, which significantly increased their understanding of global poverty, and the role they can play to bring about global justice.

How We Manage Our Affairs

Board of Trustees

The business of the Charity, which comprises of four legal entities in Ireland, UK, Tanzania and USA, is directed by what is effectively the same Board of Trustees. The Board, which meets four times per year, aims to have a minimum of 10 members with a variety of experience and skill-sets to help define and implement the strategic direction of the organisation. The number, powers and proceedings governing the role and conduct of Trustees are laid out in the organisation’s Memorandum and Articles of Association.

The Board is further supported by a number of sub-committees such as Finance & General Purposes Committee and International Programme Committee. These committees comprise of both Board and relevant staff representatives, and provide a mechanism for more effective governance and input of the Board on executive matters. Furthermore, the Annual Strategic Review, attended by Board members, management and staff, provides a forum to share results and track progress towards the organisation’s long-term goals and objectives.

Results Based Management (RBM)

RBM is a set of integrated monitoring and evaluation tools used to track results towards achieving strategic objectives. It helps ensure all resources are aligned towards achieving impact and that all programmes, project and support activities have performance data and results indicators with annual targets and review mechanisms.

Risk Management

A comprehensive risk management programme, overseen by the Finance & General Purposes Committee, continues to monitor, evaluate and implement mitigating actions where it’s necessary to manage risks in the areas of governance, operational, financial and regulatory matters. Both organisational and country-specific risk registers have been reviewed and updated in the last 12 months.

Compliance & Codes of Conduct

Management

A scheme of delegation is in place and operational responsibility has been assigned to the Executive Director, appointed by, but not a member of the Board, who is supported by a team of department managers. The management team meets monthly and the Executive Director also meets with each department manager quarterly to review performance based on Results Based Management tools. A number of working groups of staff drawn from different functions, such as Digital Media Group, also exist to provide specific guidance and enhance cohesion across the organisation.

Collectively these measures enable a clearer focus on results throughout the organisation and wider understanding of how the organisation works together towards overall Outcomes and Impact.

Children in Crossfire is also a signatory to the Dóchas code of conduct on images and messages. The Dóchas code offers a set of guiding principles that can assist organisations in their decision-making about which images and messages to choose in their communication while maintaining full respect for human dignity.
